Dear Richard:

For the last 18 years, US SAILING has hosted one of the largest Olympic & Paralympic Class events in North America – the Rolex Miami OCR. Since its inception, the regatta has slowly grown in to a world class event with significant prominence on the world sailing calendar. Olympic and Paralympic hopefuls schedule this event in to their calendars as a “must attend” event.

Leading up to 2007, US SAILING recognized the need to provide logistics assistance to sailors from foreign countries. US sailors are generally quite good at managing shipping logistics due to the frequency and necessity of shipping equipment around the world. For many sailors, shipping equipment to the United States would be a first, and would require ease and speed to ensure these sailors would return for years to come.

The US Sailing Team enjoys a relationship with Schenker Global Sports to manage the Team logistics on an annual basis. It was a logical decision to work with Schenker to facilitate the logistics for the Rolex Miami OCR. The customer service that was extended to the sailors of the world was outstanding, thanks in large part to your efforts and those of your partners in Miami. The plan, put together by both US SAILING and Schenker, solved most of the logistical hurdles teams needed to overcome in order race at the event. In particular, the effort put forth by Schenker to assist other teams using other logistics providers was outstanding and greatly appreciated. Schenker was able to solve problems created by others to the great satisfaction of the sailors.

It was a true pleasure to work with Schenker Global Sports, and US SAILING recommends this company to facilitate the logistics for the Good Luck Beijing – 2007 International Regatta in Qingdao, China.

Kind regards,
